I don't think that's an option. If you want to go to Beis Din you have to choose one of these options.

Please let us know what you want to do as soon as possible.

Best,

With regard to your request for several weeks, please be advised of the following.

1. Mr. Siegal called and informed us that as far as he is concerned there is no offer that he is considering, nor is there any active negotiation. He therefore seeks to proceed with din Torah.
2. This matter has been proceeding for several months now, to now require another few weeks, absent an explanation, hardly appears sincere. Therefore,
3. Unless otherwise resolved, if the shtar berurin and arbitration agreement are not returned signed by the end of this week, we will consider a seruv and/or heter arkaos.

Hi all,

We spoke to Eli Siegel, and we discussed a possible solution.

He said he needed around a week to think about it.

As we discussed please push this for another 2 weeks and hopefully this will be resolved by then.

I'm sure you understand.

Messrs. Sorotzkin and Milstein,

You requested this matter wait until after Pesach so you can review the complaint. To be clear, a six-week postponement for review is rarely granted and is generally considered an unreasonably long time for that purpose. However, we considered granting it if the signed Shtar Berurin and Arbitration Agreement are submitted right away.

It has now been over four weeks and we have yet to receive the signed documents. Obviously, your failure to submit them casts doubt on the sincerity of your request for adjournment.

Please be advised that if we do not receive the signed documents by tomorrow evening, we will have to regard you as evading din Torah -- and we will accordingly consider proceeding with further action.

We apologize but we have not had a chance to read the compliant.

We will need time to read the complaint and due to conflicting schedule, meeting before Pesach is just unrealistic.

I would suggest setting a time for sometime after Pesach, and by then we would have reviewed the complaint.

Thanks
